It has been another busy, but fantastic week in school. All three classes are working hard on their respective projects and we had a whole school visit from children's author Andy Seed.

Andy Seed visit:

What a fantastic day we all had yesterday with the visit of children's author Andy Seed. Andy visited every class and did a workshop with all the children.

He is passionate about Reading and promoting Reading for Pleasure. Andy also did a book signing and held a whole school assembly. He was impressed with School and the great children and staff we have here at Sinnington.

Thanks for a great day Andy

Reading at Home:

As a school, Reading is one of our key priorities. Therefore, we would like to encourage you to read with your child every night if possible. You can either read a school book together, a book from home, magazines or comics. This will help us create a 'Reading for Pleasure' culture here in school. Please could you also write down in the Home School diary what you have read with your child please.

Donaldson class have been working very hard this week on their Maths (finding smaller than and greater than) and English writing about rules for looking after Guinea Pigs. They have also, this week, launched the 'Busy Bee' award. This is an in class award and compliments the school House Point award scheme. A Busy Bee is awarded to any child in Donaldson class for achievement during the day. Busy

Bee's have also been sent home, so please send them back with any achievements your child has done out of school (swimming, sports, music etc).

Dahl class are exploring their question 'Who were the Vikings?' This week, the children tried weaving the way the Vikings would have done it with some great results. They have also been working hard on column addition and subtraction this week.

Rowling class have also been working hard in all their subjects. This week, the class have discovered that they will be learning about Ernest Shackleton and his Antarctica Expedition to answer the question 'How did they survive Antarctica' - this created an excellent debate within class.

A great week from every class, well done everyone and keep it up!

MacMillan Coffee Afternoon

Thank you everyone for all your donations of cakes, biscuits, cookies, buns, wonderful raffle and tombola prizes.
